BIRTHDAY PLANS GAIN IN SCOPE

Executive Committee Hears Reports

REVIEWING STAND

Visiting Officials to Have a Point of Vantage

Individual enthusiasm, coupled with organized effort of the many various committees working under direct supervision and leadership of the Quarter Centennial Executive committee has been enlisted toward making the celebration commemorating the 25th birthday of the city of Port Arthur on July Fourth.

Funds Are Raised

Reports from committee heads, made to the executive committee at a meeting of that body last night, indicated that all forces are working together nicely and that the success of the gigantic undertaking already is assured.

Chairman J. R. Denney of the finance committee reported that sufficient funds have been raised with which to carry out the one-day celebration program. The expenditure will approximate $10,000, it is expected.

Mrs. G. A. Hooker will preside in an information booth, located on Austin avenue and appropriately decorated with Independence Day colors, will be installed, it was announced.

Two Princesses Named

With regard to princesses to be furnished by Beaumont, Orange, Sabine, Port Neches, Nederland and Lake Charles, it was learned that Beaumont and Orange have definitely decided upon a young woman for the occasion and the other towns are expected to do so shortly.

There will be erected at some point along the line of march a reviewing stand for officials from surrounding cities to witness that part of the celebration program and the high school band will be stationed there as an extra entertainment feature to fill in dull moments.

30 Divisions of Floats

The street pageant, to be conducted through the main streets on the morning of July 4, will start from Procter and Houston avenue and will include more than 30 divisions of floats furnished by merchants, civic and fraternal organizations and individuals. Everything will be free from commercialism and will portray events in keeping with the spirit of the day.

Maj. FitzGerald of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has been appointed parade marshal. The parade will move up Procter to Stillwell boulevard and back to Austin avenue where the coronation of the queen ceremonies will take place. This event was changed from a night affair to fill in the forenoon program. The coronation will directly follow the parade. There will be other ceremonies in the evening, including the presentation of diamond bar pins to the queen and princesses. There was some discussion of entering a float for each out of town princess in the parade, but this cannot be definitely determined until taken up and approved by officials of the town concerned.

'FLAGOLOGY' IS TAUGHT ROTARY

Club Is Told How to Use Emblems

Of weather flags, signal flags and national emblems, Rotarians heard a great deal today when they gathered at their luncheon meeting in the Plaza hotel.

Draped around the walls of the Plaza dining room were flags and pennants of various shapes and colors, the signal and weather flags. Then when each of the smaller flags had been explained to the Rotarians, Old Glory was raised to a masthead erected in one end of the dining room.

Miss Wilma Sims, daughter of George M. Sims, superintendent of the Port Arthur schools, conducted the lesson in "flagology" for the Rotarians, sketching briefly the uses for each of the various flags displayed in the room and giving the etymology for displaying and handling Old Glory, and finally, summed up the things the national emblem stands for.

Not only the dining room of the Plaza, but the lobby and entrance of the hotel were draped with United States flags. The Flag Day program was arranged by Cullen C. Harrell and George Sims, both members of the Rotary Club.

BILLIE WANTS HER RING BACK

Billie Sorrels, "perfect manicurist" and beauty prize winner of Oklahoma City, received a $750 ring from a wealthy cotton merchant. Then, say authorities, the giver and a friend successfully plotted to get it back by robbing Billie. "Husbands should buy rings for their wives," says the county attorney, who turned the ring over to the man's wife. But Billie is fighting to regain possession of it.

PT. ARTHUR GIRL DROWNS IN GULF

Pulmotor Fails to Revive Lillian Geautreux

Miss Lillian Geautreux, who was drowned in an undertow while bathing at Bryan beach, near Freeport, last Tuesday night and for whose life vain efforts were made when a midnight airplane trip from Houston conveyed a pulmotor to the scene of the drowning, was a former resident of Port Arthur.

Miss Geautreux lived at 248 Tenth street with her family until about a year ago. She was about 18 years of age and was a student at Port Arthur College, having graduated from that institution with honors.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Geautreux who moved to Freeport from here.

Immediately after recovering Miss Geautreux's body from the water, R. W. McKee of Houston left in an airplane carrying Richard Dwyer, pulmotor expert, and a pulmotor. However, the girl was beyond recovery even before the body was taken from the water. She had been there about ten minutes.

J. B. Chambers and Neal Hansen, other members of the bathing party of five persons, were nearly drowned in efforts to rescue Miss Geautreux. They had to be revived.

All means of resuscitation failed, even the pulmotor being ineffective in bringing the young woman to life. The airplane made the trip in 45 minutes and returned Wednesday morning.

Santa Fe Prepares for a Record-Crop Movement

Anticipating the greatest movement of Texas crops in recent years, the Santa Fe railroad system is rushing additional and improvements on its entire rolling stock and motive equipment. J. G. Fitzhugh, superintendent for safety on the Santa Fe, and editor of the company's publication "The Earth," said here today.

Fitzhugh is in Port Arthur visiting Percy Craig, manager of the Plaza hotel.

Crop conditions in central Texas are better this season than for years past, Fitzhugh said.

$1200 IN STRONG BOX FOR SELLING STREETS

With about $1200 available for selling the new streets and repairing old ones, enough to take care of about five blocks of new shelling, according to the estimates of J. O. Herpin, city engineer, Mayor J. D. Logan, Commissioner R. J. Wade and the city engineer started out on an inspection trip after the session of the commissioners meeting today to decide which streets shall be shelled, they said.

Several avenues are slated for shelling out to Zavalle boulevard, it is understood, but just which ones is yet to be determined, city officials said.

Money, Prosecutor, Judge And Prisoner Take Turns Talking in Trial of Drunk

Money did most of the talking in recorder's court Thursday. The defendant was a Spaniard who "comprende" English, and he didn't understand in English what charge he faced.

Assistant City Attorney White, former back, studied a moment, then questioned the prisoner's sobriety in his native tongue.

That did it. Judge Ellis collected $10 and costs.

RECORDER COURT SUSPENDS TODAY

Automatically Ceases on Eve Of New City Bench

Recorder's court passed out of existence today as Judge C. N. Ellis closed the last session with a clear docket before the new Port Arthur court convenes in opening session Friday morning with Judge A. W. Dycus presiding.

State Is Cleared

The last formality for setting the new court in operation was disposed of in commissioners' meeting today when Mayor J. P. Logan re-appointed Dycus as judge of the court, conforming to the terms of the ordinance governing the operation of the court which became effective today.

Cases pending on the recorder's court docket for months past, and cases filed there recently were dismissed without prejudice by Judge Ellis today, except those cases disposed of by trial at the final session today. Some of the cases dismissed were for failure to appear in court Friday, officers said.

Equal Jurisdiction

Features of the new court include its powers equal with those of Jefferson county court at law, which provide for imposing jail sentences and trial of cases of petty larceny and theft; denial of the right of appeal where fines of less than $10 and costs are assessed; and the provision that the official name of the new court is Corporation Court in Port Arthur, Texas, and all of the new dockets, complaints and other papers to be used in connection with the court carry that heading.

Belgian Cabinet Quits

TAKE VARNA, KEY TO BLACK SEA

Ex-Premier Stamboulsky Is Reported at Army's Head

ASKS INTERVENTION

Appeals to Jugo-Slavia for Army

ATHENS, June 14.—Bulgarian peasant forces loyal to Ex-Premier Stamboulsky stormed and occupied Varna, according to Sofia reports today.

The peasants, who are waging civil war against the new revolutionary regime, have the upper hand everywhere throughout Northwestern Bulgaria, dispatches indicate.

Port City Captured

Capture of Varna, an important fortified port on the Black Sea, is regarded as a mighty important success for the counter revolutionaries.

Ex-Premier Stamboulsky, alive and free at the head of his followers, despite constant rumors of his death and capture, is understood to have dispatched emissaries to Belgrade, asking army intervention by Jugo-Slavia on his behalf. It is rumored that the government at Belgrade is sympathetic to such intervention, sending reports that Stamboulsky had planned to assist in uniting Bulgaria with Jugo-Slavia.

Zankoff Recruiting

Meanwhile, the Zankoff forces are increasing their strength by enlistments that bring the government army admittedly above the limit set by the allies at Neuilly. The new ministry claims this is necessary to repress the counter revolution.

Zankoff troops have been active, and today the arrest of the former president of the chamber, Bete, and of the brother of Stamboulsky, is reported.

Repeated efforts to take the former premier himself failed, however, although he was close pressed.

WILLIAMS MAY ASK INJUNCTION

Alley Closing Proposal Bobs Up in Council

Threat of instituting suit against the city in the event the alley is closed from Nederland avenue to Zavalle boulevard, between San Antonio avenue and Avenue A was made before the city commission today by W. P. Williams, property owner in the area affected.

The proposition of closing the alley will be put up to the voters' next Tuesday when the budget election is held, and until the outcome of this election is known, no assurance that the alley will remain open can be given, Mayor Logan told Williams.

Alley to Property Chain

"The alley is the only inlet I have to the back of my property, and if it is closed, my wood and coal supplies will have to be brought through my house," Williams told the commission. "I'm only seeking redress and protection of my property," he said.

"What I believe about the proposition is that the Texas company is trying to freeze out," Williams said. "They own all the other property in the block. Of course they can line up many votes when the proposition of closing the alley is submitted next Tuesday, while I have only my own vote," he said.

Says Hell Fight

Williams said he didn't want to appear "bull headed" on the proposition but simply wanted his rights protected.

Failing to get assurance that the alley will not be closed, at least up to the back of his property, which is the first lot in from the corner, Williams told the commission he will "spend his last dollar" to fight against having the alley closed, and will take the case into the courts.

ORIENTALS SLAY SMUGGLER CREW

New York Harbor Scene of Sanguine Battle

DRUMHEAD COURT

20 Pay $500 Each Head Money, Captain Flees

NEW YORK, June 14.—A strange story of a fight on the high seas, in which five Chinese, two white men and two negroes were slain aboard the sloop Mary Beatrice, was told here today by one of the surviving Chinese.

The Mary Beatrice, a two-masted British "Bahama sloop" was found off New York bay without crew or captain, and with fifteen Chinamen aboard.

One of them, whose name is withheld, made a statement to immigration authorities today, asserting that after he and his fellow orientals had paid $500 apiece to be smuggled into the United States from Cuba, the skipper abandoned with the money, the crew tried to hold up the Chinamen, and in the ensuing battle the Chinese, whites and negroes died.

Through an interpreter this Chinaman told how he and 19 companions embarked at Havana May 8. They were assured that they would be transported rapidly to American soil, and landed without delay.

Estimated Dead

The 20 Chinamen were packed aboard, to get here with the skipper, two white sailors and two blacks. They were jammed in like negro slaves on an old-fashioned African slave ship, and so they set sail for New York. The boat is only 30 feet long, and with the heavy human cargo, it wobbled low in the waves, shipping much water. Conditions aboard were terrible.

In addition to the Chinamen, the skipper had a cargo of whisky, according to the story told immigration officials, and this he sampled himself in liberal quantities, afterward beating his passengers for amusement.

June 6, after a very long voyage, the Mary Beatrice—by this time a veritable "hell ship"—arrived off New York bay, its unweaned, unshaken, suffering human cargo eager to get ashore.

The skipper, however, cruised up and down, waiting for smuggling launches to come out and remove his shipment of "booze and Chinks."

Last Tuesday, the narrator said, the captain announced that he was going to depart. Food and water had run low. Before leaving he distributed rifles and pistols to his crew—the two white and two blacks.

After the skipper had roved away in the only small boat—and taken with him all the passage money—the crew conferred and they decided to hold up the passengers.

They formed a sort of sea tribunal, with one man sitting on a cask, two others standing by him with knives and pistols in their hands, and a fourth on guard at his shoulder with a rifle, and the spokesman yelled "number one Chink boy" should step up and deliver all his cash and valuables.

All this time the Mary Beatrice was (Turn To Page 2 Column 1)

Miss Garrett Still Holds Queen's Lead

Lead in the Queen Voting Contest today still was held by Miss Gladys Garrett, although Miss Mary Donaldson was crowding her closely for first place.

Miss Gladys Smith was in third place with but a scant 350 votes separating her from the leader. Coupon ballots, clipped from daily editions of The News were continuing to pour into the Contest Editor by messenger and in every mail.

The standings are as follows:

"Did you see Ruby Joan, my rag doll?" asked Nancy.

"Jack Town!" called Mister Punch, the conductor of the Choo-Choo Land Express. Ten minutes for lunch. Nancy and Nick wanted no lunch. But they did want to ask about Ruby Joan. Nancy's rag doll that was lost. So out they tumbled and rushed away at once to ask a policeman if any Jack Sparat and Jack the Piper anybody like Ruby Joan had been around Jack Town was a queer place, there wasn't a doubt. Everybody in it had to have a Jack in his name or he couldn't live there. There were Jacks, and Jack-of-the-Boxes, and Jack Stems, and Jack Straws and Jack O'Lanterns, and Jack-in-the-Pulpits, and Jack-of-All-Trades and all the Jacks in the world. The policeman was a Jumping Jack, because he had to be everywhere at once. So the Twins went up to him at once. "Did you see Ruby Joan, my rag doll?" asked Nancy. "She had shoe-button eyes and a polka-dot dress, and polka-dot stockings but her hair was only painted on like her toes. Did you see her?" "No, I didn't," answered the Jumping Jack policeman. But Ill ask Jack A'Spand and Jack Re Nimble and Jack Sparat and Jack the Piper and Jack the Giant Killer and Jack A'Nory and the Jack of Clubs. If none of them saw her, she can't be here at all." Pretty soon he came jumping back, waving his club. "No one in Jack Town has seen her," he said. "I'm sorry. Come again when you can stay longer. Thank you, we will," promised Nancy. "Toot! Toot!" went the Choo-Choo Land Express. The Twins ran and jumped on just in time. (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service, Inc.)

Civilians Back Dayton, Ohio, for '24 Session

Automobiles to carry the Port Arthur Camp Fire Girls to the summer camp on Beech creek, where the Boy Scouts close their two-weeks' outing there next Sunday, were requested of members of the Civitan club Wednesday by Mrs. E. I. Welch, official in Port Arthur Camp Fire Girls' organization.

The Civitans instructed their president, Vernon J. Westner, to give his vote in the International Civitan convention, meeting next week in Washington, D. C., to Dayton, Ohio, as the 1924 International convention city. Miami, Florida, also is bidding for the 1924 convention. Port Arthur Civitans are advised.

Harry Silber, secretary of the club, was appointed to appear before the Kiwanis club, at Beaumont, next Tuesday to invite that organization to put a float in Port Arthur's Quarter Centennial parade, July 4.

Geraldine Denies She Ever Forgave Tellegre

NEW YORK.—"We have quit paying attention to this fellow's self advertisement of his conquest," Geraldine Farrar, prima donna, said Thursday in reply to the statement of Lou Tellegre that she forgave the actress for her action for divorce.

Samuel Intermyer, counsel for Miss Farrar, said he was amazed at Tellegre's frank admission of his relations with one of the co-respondents, Kathleen Clifford.

"Mr. Tellegre's statement I forgave him for his friendship long before I brought suit for divorce is untrue, the singer said through her attorney. "If Mr. Tellegre says I talked over the incident with him and told him I forgave him he is not telling the truth."

PLAY
SET FOR FRIDAY

Let's All Get Married To Be Given By Langlers

Interesting farcical comedy of the play "Let's All Get Married," which will be presented at the First Christian church Friday evening under the patronage of the Christian Endeavor society. Those who have witnessed the rehearsal declare that the play promises to be as delightful as its name implies.

The play consists of two acts, both taking place in the living room of Professor Maxwell Harrington's home, and both filled with amusing and laugh-provoking incidents.

A large stage has been constructed in the main auditorium of the church on which to present the play, and effective background and settings are being arranged for the stage.

The cast of characters includes: Prof. Maxwell Harrington—Maxwell Allen.

Ethel, his sister—Miss Mary McBride.

Laura Plum, his aunt—Mrs. W. E. Clinton.

Marjorie Miller, his fiance and cousin—Miss W. E. Griffin.

Goddie McGrath, his very competent stenographer—Mrs. Willa Robertshaw.

Everette Payne, the family lawyer—John Bushara.

Rev. Benjamin Morris—Carl T. Long.

Dick Havers, a college student—Adrian Gorman.

Jack Foster, a newspaper man—Robert Jernigan.

Biggs, a very satisfactory butler—Steve Vaughn.

Tickets for the play are being disposed by members of the Christian Endeavor society.

The proceeds will go toward paying the Christian Endeavor pledges and the remainder of the piano fund.

riding the swells just outside New York, right in the track of liners and auxiliary boats. But no attention was paid to the bootleg smuggler and his strange cargo.

The Chinese refused to give up their money as demanded, and the fight started. Most of the passengers were unarmed, but they scurried around and grabbed what weapons they could in the shape of hatchets and knives from the galley.

According to the Chinaman's story, he and his compatriots defended themselves as well as they could, while they were seeking hiding places. The two whites and the two negroes, being drunk, were hanging away with rifles and revolvers without doing any damage.

In a very few minutes the whites and negroes exhausted their ammunition, and then the Chinese emerged from their hiding places and in a hand to hand fight massacred the crew. When the battle was over, nine men, including five Chinese, were dead on the bloody decks.

Bodies Pitched Overboard

The bodies were pitched overboard, and the survivors clung up the ship, set distress signals and sat down to wait for something to happen. Last night they were found and towed into quarantine.

At first all were dumb, and merely pointed over the side when asked what had become of the rest. Later, one of them decided to talk, and told the story.

When they were examined at quarantine, doctors said, one man was found to be suffering from a bullet wound, but there was no other evidence of a fight.

They are being held for deportation.

PORT WORTH, Texas, June 14.—Port Worth wondered today about the short lived romance of Winfield Scott, Jr., youthful millionaire and scion of a pioneer Texas family, and Miss Gertrude J. Lane of Kansas City, Mo.

Basic Not Learned

Scott late yesterday filed suit for divorce. Papers containing the allegations in the case were withdrawn immediately after the suit had been recorded, and its basis has not been learned.

The couple was married at the Mulbach hotel in Kansas City Jan. 9, after Miss Lane, the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Lane of 1100 Paseo, that city, is understood to have broken an engagement with another man.

Bombshell to "High Hats"

Coming here after the wedding, Scott gave his young bride several handsome automobiles, and Port Worth society folk, who at first feared for the match because of rumored opposition of Scott's mother, began to think it was a success. Therefore, the information that the youthful millionaire had filed divorce was somewhat of a bombshell in "high hat" circles here.

Miss Scott recently went to Kansas City to visit her mother and is there now. She is quoted here as having expressed surprise when informed of her husband's action, and to have stated she and Scott were on the best of terms when she left here.

The Dongerum Umbrella

Over in France the umbrella has acquired respectability and become a dangerous weapon. One rainy day recently two men were killed with umbrellas in Germany in which their opponents used the same weapons in mortal combat.

FINGER PRINTS
ARREST BLACKS

Two Held at Dallas in Slayings of Officers

DALLAS, June 14.—Finger prints played the principal part in the apprehension of two negroes, placed in jail here last night in connection with the murder of two Dallas policemen, officers said today.

Ernest Lawson and Blaine Dyer, negro, ex-convicts, were arrested on charges of having killed Motorcycle Officer J. C. Gibson and Special Officer J. R. Crain, Gibson was shot and killed early in the morning of April 19 while attempting to arrest a burglar at a drug store here. Crain met death in the same manner while peering through the window of another drug store, early on the morning of May 24. The killing both times escaped without being seen.

Lawson has confessed to killing Crain, but accuses Dyer of having killed Gibson, police asserted. Dyer accuses the other negro of both crimes.

Finger prints in a soda pop bottle and on a pawned stolen pistol led to the arrests, authorities declared.

Field of Applicants To Be Further Studied—Banker

Appointment of a secretary-manager for the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce to succeed L. G. Stump will not be made until after the summer months.

H. F. Banker, president, announced this morning that following a lengthy meeting of the directors last Monday night, it was decided that the affairs of the Chamber of Commerce will be left in the hands of Traffic Manager Frank Potts and his assistants until after the summer months, during which time the officials of the organization will "rest" about after an experienced and competent successor for Mr. Stump.

Banker let it be known that the directors of the chamber are in no great hurry to appoint a successor at the present time, the president pointing out that "there are no matters or problems before us at this time which require the immediate disposition of the appointment, and therefore, we have decided to let the duties of affairs rest in the hands of Potts and his assistants."

EMPLOYEES CRACKSMAN,
PROVES SAFE UNSAFE

BERLIN, June 14.—I want a reliable burglar who happens to be out of jail," read a recent application to the Berlin police from a jeweler, proprietor of a big new establishment on Potsdamerplatz.

Inquiry showed that the jeweler wanted an expert cracksmen to test the safety appliances and locks of his new establishment.

The cracksmen called a man whose skill in his regular calling was above question.

Within one hour the cracksmen burglar displayed one of the iron bars, which safe makers had guaranteed to be theftproof, and made his way into the shop. He offered so many suggestions about safety devices that the jeweler has employed him regularly to inspect the construction work.

British piano trade is now employing nearly 10,000 hands.

RIVAL MOTHER
LOSES GIRL, 5

'King Solomon' Parallel Decided by Judge

CHICAGO, June 14.—Judge Joseph B. David today decided that Mrs. Julia Waszyn, 35, is the mother of Leona Felicia, 5, and that the little girl claimed by two women as a blood daughter, is of legitimate birth.

Mrs. Waszyn's claim to the child was contested in a court hearing by Mrs. Nicholas Lenz, 32. The case likened to the "King Solomon" episode of Bible tradition, had been attracting crowded court rooms daily.

Both Mrs. Waszyn and Mrs. Lenz testified that they gave birth to the child and produced evidence supporting their assertions. Each declared that at intervals after birth the little girl was placed in temporary care of the other.

Dramatic Scenes

Dramatic scenes were enacted in the court room just before and during Judge David's decision.

Mrs. Waszyn reiterated that the child was born in Strz, Poland, and later brought to this country.

Mrs. Lenz declared it was born to her here in a Cæsarean operation, but refused to name the doctor who cared for her. She asserted that Leona Felicia was an illegitimate child, that to name the physician would be to "ruin him."

Judge Takes Proceedings

Judge David then took over the proceedings. He waived attorneys' fees and questioned principals and witnesses. He established, with passing accuracy, that Mrs. Waszyn, according to records, that Mrs. Waszyn, accompanied by a child, came here from Poland. Miss Anne Jivanski, of the Canadian Angel Welfare home, testified that two weeks after landing Mrs. Waszyn stayed at the home with Leona Felicia.

"Mrs. Waszyn is the mother beyond a doubt," Judge David said. "I am basing the testimony on facts. I am basing the testimony on facts. I am basing the testimony on facts."

"The motive of Mrs. Lenz in making false claims was a yearning for motherhood with the knowledge that she could never have a child of her own. There is no doubt a Cæsarean operation caused her plight, but it was not at the birth of Leona."

Rival Mother Weeps

"It is inconceivable that any person can come into court and affirm or deny motherhood, and nothing but her longing for motherhood would have made her do it."

Judge David said the case was without precedent in law or history. In discussing the case which King Solomon decided, the judge said that the law could not be based on a Biblical precedent because of lack of documentary proof.

Mrs. Waszyn, who understands no English, sat uncomprehending as Judge David spoke. When interpreters explained the decision, she hugged Leona's clothing to her and left immediately for a welfare home to claim the child. Mrs. Lenz buried her head in her arms and wept.

WISCONSIN SENATE
KILLS BOOZE PROBE

MADISON, Wis., June 14.—The Wisconsin senate today defeated the Sevenson resolution providing for investigation of reports of abstinence in state offices and "booze parties" involving legislators.

The vote was 18 to 12. "Wets" in the legislature had branded the resolution as a "counter" to their attempts to repeal dry laws.

PLAN S. E. TEXAS
FAIR BUILDING

Business Men Tentatively Discuss Permanent Home

Port Arthur may get a permanent building at the South Texas Fair in Beaumont.

This was the information given out here this morning by prominent business men, who indicated that a movement is afoot locally to get permission from the fair association to construct a permanent Port Arthur building on the grounds in Beaumont.

Delegation Coming

It was understood this morning from officials of the Chamber of Commerce that members of the Southeast Texas Fair association will be in Port Arthur soon to appear before the directors of the organization to discuss plans for the ensuing fair. The fair officers, it is understood, will urge Port Arthur to bring a large exhibit to the fair, and at the same time, local men behind the move to get a permanent Port Arthur building in Beaumont will discuss their plan.

Plans Tentative

Just what will result from the proposal is not known, but Port Arthurians interested in the success of the Southeast Texas Fair are also interested in the advancement and advertisement of Port Arthur on the grounds, and have expressed the feeling that the erection of a building will be the best means of Port Arthur's participation in the organization hereafter.

The plans, while still in tentative state, have met with considerable favor from all sides, it is understood.

Texas Senate Spikes
House's Criticism of
N. Y. Dry Repeal Act

AUSTIN, Texas, June 14.—The Texas state senate late yesterday adopted a resolution in which it disapproved of a resolution adopted earlier in the day by the house representatives, deploring the repeal of the New York prohibition laws.

The senate resolution declared that "the Texas state senate has enough business on its hands to look after the welfare, prosperity, and liberty of the state of Texas," and that "criticism by one legislature of acts of another will bring about strife and dissension."

MARINE MISCELLANEY

12 Italians to Be Deported

A dozen Italian deportees arrived aboard the steamship Higbo late Wednesday and are being held for safe keeping while the ship is in Port Arthur loading for Mediterranean ports. The Italians were ordered deported by immigration officials before the Higbo sailed from Galveston yesterday. Before starting across the Atlantic, the Higbo will complete cargo in New Orleans, sailing for that port after lifting a part cargo of case oil in Port Arthur.

Clearing Tanks by Vacuum

Cleaning bunker oil tanks in eight to ten days against the 25 days required when this work is done by hand labor is claimed for the Wheeler vacuum method which J. J. Kane, of the Kane Boiler Works, Galveston, is installing in Galveston in the near future. Kane returned from New York with franchise rights to operate the process in the ports of Galveston,

Texas City and Houston.

10 Per Cent Import Penalty

Imported articles without the place of origin stamped upon them are subject to a penalty of 10 per cent in addition to the regular duty collected by U. S. customs officials, and when the penalty was recently assessed by Galveston customs officials upon an importation of furniture from Germany, the 10 per cent penalty had to be paid,
although the new law went into effect while the furniture cargo was on the high seas.

Higbo Reaches Port

With a general overhauling and cleaning completed in a Galveston dry-dock, the steamship Higbo came to Port Arthur late Wednesday afternoon and started loading a part cargo of case oil for delivery at Mediterranean ports. The Higbo will go from Port Arthur to New Orleans to finish before starting for the Mediterranean.

Trinidadian Loads

Coming in light from Savannah on Wednesday afternoon, the Gulf company's tanker Trinidadian loaded a cargo of oil and sailed today for Galveston.

Clear Health State

Arrangements for caring for ship's crews ordered in detention on steamship Lake Champlain, serving as a temporary detention barracks at Sabine are being made by Dr. T. J. Liddell, U. S. public health surgeon in charge of the Sabine district, he said today.
So far, none of the crews arriving at the Sabine quarantine have been ordered detained, Dr. Liddell said.

Bailey Herb July 1

Lieutenant F. Y. Bailey, assistant surgeon in the U. S. public health service, who comes to Port Arthur about July 1 for duty at the Port Arthur public health station, will be assigned to relief work here, Dr. Bailey is now on duty at the United States
Marine hospital at Chicago, Illinois.

Port Export Statistics

Exports from Port Arthur for the past year, listed in quantities, and showing their destinations, are carried in the last issue of the Gulf Ports magazine. The data was compiled by LeRoy G. Stupp, until recently manager of the Port Arthur Chamber of Commerce and Shipping.

Technical Violation Alleged

Arriving at Port Arthur Wednesday evening without taking out a patique before leaving Galveston, which Surgeon T. J. Liddell declared to be a technical violation of the quarantine laws, the American S. Higbo will be given a statement that it has not fully complied with the laws, Dr.
Liddell said Thursday morning.
Willful violation of the requirement incurs a penalty of $5000 fine to the ship and not more than $500 to the master, Dr. Liddell said, but as this was only a technical violation, other ports will be informed that the ship had not fully complied with the law.

A SPORTING EVENT

It is a busy scene in the year of one of Houston's greatest manufacturing establishments. A number of workmen are busy raising some heavy object by means of blocks and tackle. A rope is worn in two by friction, and a derrick falls. The derrick is a heavy, old-fashioned one, and the way, a loud jarring crash, a cloud of dust, and a man stretched out dead beneath the heavy timbers.

The others gather round and with herculean efforts drag the beams from across the mangled form. There is a hoarse murmur of pity from rough but kind hearts, and the question rises around the group, "Who is to tell her?"

In a neat little cottage near the railroad, within their sight as they stand, a bright-eyed, brown-haired young woman is singing at her work, not knowing that death has snatched away her husband in the twinkling of an eye.

Singing happily at her work while the hand that she had chosen to protect and comfort her through life, lies still and fast turning to the coldness of the grave.

These rough men shrink like children from telling her. They dread to hear the news that will change her smiles to awful sorrow and lamentation.

"You go, Mike," three or four of them say at once. "Tis more larnin' ye have than any of us, whatever, and ye'll be after brakin' the news to her as any man can. Be off with ye now, and whiske gently to Tim's place larnin' while we try to get the corpse in shape."

Mike is a pleasant-faced man, young and stalwart, and with a last look at his unfortunate comrade he goes slowly down the street toward the cottage where the fair young wife—alas, now a widow—lives.

When he arrives, he does not hesitate. He is tender-hearted, but strong. He lifts the gate latch and walks firmly to the door. There is something in his face, before he speaks, that tells her the truth.

"What is it?" she asks, "spontaneous combustion, or snakes?" "Derrick fell," says Mike. "Then I've lost my bet," she says. "I thought sure it would be whiskey. Life, meessure, is full of disappointments."

YOU AND I

JONAH

Retiring after half a century spent in teaching, Elsie Scott Loomis recalls that in 1855 he was "fired" from a university professorship because he didn't believe that the whale swallowed Jonah.

Possibly he had looked down the small throat of a whale and figured that it would be about as easy for Jonah to swallow the whale. A miracle, however, is the accomplishment of the seemingly impossible, and cannot be judged by "possible" lines of reasoning.

WHEN?

With May big iron production smashing all records, even of war-bum times, you have the very pleasant situation that when general business starts to slump again it will be carried forward for considerable time by its own momentum.

It takes about an eighth of a mile to stop the fastest and heaviest express train after the brakes are thrown, a veteran engineer tells us. So with business when it's rushing top speed.

IMPRISONED

You know how 110 volts of electricity feel when you touch a live wire or accidentally stick your finger in the electric light socket. Multiply that voltage 20,000 times and you have the terrific power with which they are experimenting in the General Electric laboratories at Pittsfield, Mass.

We are chaining tremendous forces. But we're still a good man laps behind Nature. Strinmetz says a real bolt of lightning is 25 times as powerful as the artificially produced force in Pittsfield. And yet people have been struck by lightning and have afterward, in your list of wonders, give the human body a place near the top.

COAL

This is a good time to buy your winter coal. If your dealer is playing fairly, you'll probably find he is. The coal business is rather quiet, hungry for orders. Seasonal dullness. That makes prices more attractive than when everybody is trying to get coal at the same time. So buying your winter fuel now, you'll save a lot more than interest on the investment. And you'll help keep the coal mines open for the coal dig-

GOVERNOR JACK ON DECK

Governor Jack Walton of Oklahoma is on deck. Governor Jack was elected by the democrats and farm-laborites. He made a clean sweep of the political platter last year. Many conservative democrats looked upon him as ungodly in his democracy, inapious in his teaching of the Jeffersonian gospel and profane in his touch of the democratic Bible.

This did not frighten the Honorable Jack Walton nor cause him sleepless nights. He announced that he is a farmer and a laborer and incidentally willing to do justice to all concerned, but he gave warning that the producers, or wealth makers, as he classified them, came first.

Oklahoma has gone overwhelmingly republican in 1920 and the voters had sent a republican to the senate and captured five congressional districts that were looked upon as democratic preserves. Jack Walton reversed this. He redeemed his state. He captured the congressional districts which he said had been stolen by republican political high-binders and he hopes to go to the senate after he has served the Oklahomans four years as governor.

Oklahoma has an agricultural and mechanical college. This radical farmers claim as their own pet school. These radical farmers do not care to have their boys inducted into the mysteries of Greek and Latin. They demand that their progeny shall be transformed from raw material into finished agricultural product—trained farmers, as it were.

"To the victors belong the spoils," Governor Jack named three regents of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Oklahoma. There were two hold-overs. This gave the Waltonites a majority of one. They elected George Wilson president of the college.

George is without a college degree. He did not inherit one. He did not acquire one. He did not have one thrust upon him. He is a noted organizer. He is a noted platform speaker and lecturer on agricultural topics. He is a noted rabble-rouser. He has a large stock of philosophy all his own.

Now the American Legion resented his selection. Many of the student body revolted. Many of the Greek and Latin scholars declared it a burning shame. To cap the climax the faculty of the college organized a strike, appointed a cheer leader, named walking delegates and moved out in a body.

They are having in politico-educational circles in Oklahoma what Don Marquis would term a "helluva time." Hundreds of students say they'll not go back. All the educational strikers say they will never return. All the Oklahoma newspapers are first paying the principals. It is a burning issue in the state known as the stepdaughter of Texas.

Governor Jack is a stand patter. His advice, speaking of the revolt, is, "Give them the air." He is telling all concerned that the people of Oklahoma own the college, that they have a right to say who shall be president of their college and what he shall teach.

First there were threats to give President Wilson a summer suit of glossy tar and white feathers. This was abandoned. Governor Jack said he would call out the national guard if necessary to put down an incipient riot and to enforce law and order.

Earlier in the game he had notified the officials of certain counties in Oklahoma that if they didn't put down white-capping and midnight floggings he would declare martial law in their counties and make it decidedly interesting for the wild riders who loved to look at the moon.

This is the slogan that Governor Jack has originated for the college and its students: "We teach the aristocracy of labor and the dignity of toil." Oklahoma is an agricultural and an oil producing state. Seventy per cent of its people are farmers or oil workers.

They are the men who placed Governor Jack in office. But back to President Wilson who is without a faculty but who says he knows where he can get one. President Wilson has a plan all his own. It follows.

"To convert the school's thousand acre farm into communistic plant, erect a cannery factory, raise all the vegetables and fruits and produce all the dairy products necessary to sustain the students who desire to work their way through school. He figures each student could earn 30 cents an hour for work. All the products of the farm would be used to establish a common dining room where the students would be fed in return for labor."

President Wilson admits his inability to flash a college degree. He makes no apology for non-ownership of the prize bauble. President Wilson is a unique character. This is his defense:

"I could have gone to the University over at Norman and sat there under a lot of hatchet-faced old fossils who never made as much money in their lives as I made on the lecture platform—and stay there, I say—until I was given an A. B. degree or some other degree. But I didn't have the time nor the money for that."

Governor Jack is on deck. President Wilson is holding the fort. There is a strike on of well trained deans. There is hades to pay in Greek and Latin circles. There are American Legionnaires who swear by all that is holy that they are going to get the scalp of the man who succeeded an A. and M. college president who gave to the world a thesis on "The Effect of the Orations of Cicero on the Clergy of the Following Generations," when he should have been giving all his time to the sprouting of turnips and radishes and beans and cabbages.

On with the battle! But where, oh where, was Blind Orator Gore when the intellectual light went out.

MONEY AND MORALS

Jay Gould was the wizard of the American railway world. He left behind him a fortune of $150,000,000. He named George Gould as the chief executor. Now the Goulds have been separated from their railway possessions and his brothers and sisters have gone into the courts to prove that George Gould used the funds of the estate to feather his own nest.

Old Levi Leiter of Chicago was the merchant prince of Chicago. He accumulated a fortune having a value of more than $100,000,000 and he named Joseph Leiter as chief executor of the estate. One of the daughters married Lord Curzon. She died leaving several children. Now Lord Curzon and his children are in the courts, demanding an accounting and declaring that Joseph has been playing ducks and drakes with their shares of the patrimony.

Anthony Brady of New York left an estate of $100,000,000. His daughters are in the courts demanding an accounting. They say their brothers, the executors, diverted millions from the trust funds into their own pockets. Money is hades raised and no mistake, but what would the world do without it?

President Julius Barnes of the United States Chamber of Commerce insists that the world shall disarm and pay its debts. Will it?

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO SYDNEY CARTON

I am enclosing some letters to me from Leslie. They are almost too good for even the eyes of my best friend. Only that I must scrounge myself for my sins, I would not send them to you.

"I wonder, Jack, just what a man does—what his thoughts are—under these circumstances."

"What would you do, Jack? Oh, how foolish of me to ask you! Of course you do not know what you would do. No one does unless he is put in the same position."

What foolishness! I have told Leslie to write that to me? God! It is the last straw that pushes me down into purgatory of my own building!

You must see after this, Syd. I could never confess to her—never tell her—of Paula.

How sweetly she allows my fears, my jealousy of her people, and throws herself completely upon my love and care! Did ever a married sweetest write such, dear love letters?

Syd, if women only knew what soundless we were they would shrink from us in contempt instead of allowing us to hold them in our arms.

I think I shall go mad if you do not come soon, Syd. To tell you the truth, I do not dare go near Paula unless you are with me.

The longer I live, the surer I become of the fact that we must pay not only for our sins, but for our mistakes. I think I have said that to you before, Syd, but it looks to me as though Life had asked perfection of every mortal and punished or cast aside as totally unfit those who fall short of this by either mistaken notions or voluntary sinning.

Syd, I cannot endure it. I haven't even answered these wonderful letters from Leslie of which I have sent you a copy. I am envying the original around with me, and I read them over and over, alternately consumed first by the burning torture of her faith in me and then by the knowledge of how unworthy I am of that faith. She is the dearest woman in all the world. Help me to keep her happy by getting me out of this mess.

Had another note from Paula today. She tells me that the doctor says she must go away immediately if she would cure incipient tuberculosis. Syd I know what she wants. She wants to get away some place where she will not see either Leslie or me.

The poor girl hasn't a cent to bless herself with and she wants the money to go. Now I ask you how am I going to raise this money? I'm in a devil of a hole from which I seem to be trying to pull myself out by my bootstraps.

Someday I fear that it is not tuberculosis that ails Paula.

FIRST NEGRO CHILDREN HEALTH CLINIC STARTS

Between 40 and 50 negro children, from a few days to seven years of age, were given eye, ear, nose, throat and dental examinations in the first annual health clinic that is being held at Lincoln school today and Friday.

Doctors conducting the examinations included Dr. J. B. Blevins of Beaumont and Dr. M. Swearingen and Dr. J. D. Thompson of Port Arthur.

The two-day conference is being held under the auspices of the local Red Cross chapter for the purpose of giving colored mothers first-hand information regarding child hygiene, proper feeding and care during the summer months, in an effort to reduce the summer death rate.

Officers in charge report that they are being given good cooperation and expect to examine 150 children during the clinic.

QUE CRETONNES USED BY WOMEN OF FASHION IN MAKING SMART JACKETS

antique cretonne are being used by fashionable women in making smart jackets, and these attractive jackets are seen on the streets.

Cretonne was first appropriated by the designers as a fabric out of which to construct summer frocks. It took time to wear it. One hesitated in making one's self an animated chintz-covered chair. But when women blazed the trail by several of these cretonne, other women began to follow.

Of course when one is in a cretonne frock she is usually conspicuous among the women who had always that material as suitable for summer wraps and slip dresses and lounges.

you would choose a cretonne or not, you surely would much attention if you did. It has accustomed itself to be dressed in cretonne, cretonne frock is not expected this season, though it has been used in making chairs more this year than in any other.

Here's Drama Within Drama: Jane Cowl Triumphs Over Fear in a Test Role

Jane Cowl

NEW YORK, June 14.—This week marks the close of Jane Cowl's six months' run in "Romeo and Juliet." And here for the first time is told the story of a play within a play, a drama beyond the stage that concerned Miss Cowl.

It was a secret carefully guarded, but Jane Cowl had made up her mind that if she failed as Juliet she would never set foot on the stage again.

Doubtless the strain of preparation for this role—the final test and ambition of every actress—had something to do with this mental attitude at the time. But Miss Cowl confessed to a fear complex that has all but made a career in the theater impossible for her.

To play Juliet had been the dream of a lifetime, but it took years for her to "screw her courage to the sticking point." Then, when all was in readiness, came the intruding doubts and fears, not perhaps as to ment, who is training at John Seely Hospital at Galveston, will arrive in Port Arthur Friday morning for a visit of two weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Barnett of 2091 Procter street.

BILL MITCHELL, WHO HAS been attending school at Parks, Texas, returned yesterday to spend the summer months here with his mother, Mrs. M. J. Mitchell of 914 Fifth street.

COMPLIMENTING MRS. L. A. Mogland and Mrs. L. D. Dink of Abbeville, La., and Mrs. LeBlanc of Jeanerette, La., Mrs. L. L. Billard entertained with a most delightful five hundred party yesterday afternoon at her home, 1748 Ninth street.

The home was in attractive adornment with a profusion of pretty summer blossoms and green fern and foliage. Five tables of play were laid for the afternoon diversion, and at the close of the games the trophies for high score were awarded. Mrs. A. Cessac captured first prize, and consolation fell to Mrs. P. T. Fleming. Mrs. L. J. Dock received the booby favor. The guests then cut for the prizes.

A tempting two course luncheon was offered at the close of the games. Those enjoying the pleasing affair were Mrs. Albert Krohn, Mrs. P. T. Fleming, Mrs. Guy Hutton, Mrs. H. L. Livergood, Mrs. L. C. Dock, Mrs. J. A. Broussard, Mrs. E. Armstrong, Mrs. A. Cessac, Mrs. L. Seib, Mrs. A. Wolford, Mrs. Arthur Wolford, Mrs. Henry Craghton, Mrs. Jack Pouchette, Mrs. Henry Garrett, Mrs. Amy Cox of Beaumont, Mrs. Meddle Billard of Lafayette, La., Miss Corine Broussard of Broussard, La., and the honor guests and hostess.

MRS. NEAL MALPIN WAS tendered a delightful shower by a few friends Tuesday afternoon at her home, 431 Orange avenue.

A pink and white scheme was featured in the decorations, lovely carvations giving artistic floral charm to the home. After a pleasant afternoon of social conversation delicious refreshments of cake and ice cream were served, and congratulations were given as favors.

Those enjoying the occasion were Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. T. S.

of interest to many friends in Port Arthur is the announcement of the marriage of Mr. E. S. Reid an employee of the Texas Company of this city and Miss Lucy Phillips of Lake Charles, La.

The ceremony was performed in Lake Charles Wednesday morning. The happy couple will return to Port Arthur today to make their home.

Folks, meet Miss St. Paul. In private life, she's Dorothy Watson, telephone operator. Fellow citizens acclaimed her the best looking girl in Minnesota's capital. She'll enter a national beauty contest in New York soon.

WOMAN TO OPPOSE BOX IN NEXT POLITICAL RACE

AUSTIN, Texas, June 14.—That Miss Margie Neal of Carthage will become a candidate for the democratic congressional nomination next year against Congressman John C. Box, of Jacksonville, is openly predicted by her friends following her trip to Austin recently.

Miss Neal has been very active in party politics and has been repeatedly honored by the democratic national committee.

She was appointed a member of the board of regents of the state normal schools by Governor Neff.

Miss Neal's entrance into the race would be the first of women candidates in Texas and it is thought would attract nation-wide attention.

Acted Death Scene Well With Help of Chewing Gum Wad

NORFOLK, Va.—When 13-year-old Mary E. Davis, playing the role of an Indian princess in a school performance at Matthews county courthouse Thursday, collapsed as the victim of shots from an Indian band, she was applauded for the realism of the scene.

When Mary was unable to rise, however, for a certain response fear seized the audience that she had been shot.

Examination of a wound in the child's breast revealed that not a bullet but a big wad of chewing gum had caused the injury. It evidently had been placed in the blank cartridges by one of the young Indian band.

Girls not catching husbands this year shouldn't worry. Next year is Leap Year.

Many a girl is single today because she couldn't keep awake while a man talked about himself.

FISHED FOR QUARTER, MAN IS FINED $2

NEW YORK, June 14.—Theodore Greenburg went fishing with a line and piece of chewing gum for a quarter dropped through a subway grate. He attracted such a crowd he was arrested and fined $2.

TENNESSEE JUDGE, 78, DIES OF HEART STROKE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., June 14.—Judge S. F. Wilson, 78, presiding justice of the Tennessee court of civil appeals, died today of heart disease.

MISS EVELYN BAKER AND her houseguests, Misses Marian Rogers of Houston and Louise Handley of Wadley, Ala., leave tomorrow evening for Houston to spend a few days at Miss Rogers' home.

Later Miss Baker and Miss Handley will visit with former classmates of Ward-Belmont in Cuero, Texas, following which Miss Handley will return to Alabama and Miss Baker will return to Port Arthur.

THE "FLAG DAY BANQUET" which was scheduled to be given this evening at the First Methodist church, has been called off. Mrs. Milton Goss, president of the American Legion auxiliary announced today. Mrs. Goss said that the banquet would not be given on account of lack of response on the part of the various organiza-

This latest New Perfection range is equipped exclusively with SUPERFEX Burners. One burner on every stove is the big GIANT SUPERFEX. The others are "Little Giants" or standard size SUPERFEX burners.

The standard SUPERFEX equals the cooking speed of the ordinary gas burner and is faster than any other oil burner, except its own big brother the GIANT SUPERFEX. And the big GIANT itself is unsurpassed even by the giant gas burner.

Price of range illustrated $84.90
Without oven and cabinet $61.00

Do You Live Beyond the Gas Main?

OUT in the suburbs and country—out beyond the gas mains—the powerful SUPERFEX Burners of this New Perfection oil range bring all the speed and satisfaction of gas. And in city homes its economical kerosene fuel costs less than eighty-five-cent gas.

These marvelous new burners in big, convenient New Perfection ranges have swept old ideas aside with their speed, economy and wide range of quick, clean heat for year-round cooking in any home, anywhere.

Among the new improvements in this beautiful, ultra modern range is the removable porcelain enameled burner tray.

A demonstration of the gas-stove service and oil stove dependability of SUPERFEX burners will be a revelation in easy cooking. See your dealer today.

TRIBE' DYING ON HIGH ROCK

Did Scotch Clan Near Extinction

LONDON, June 14.—Imagine a community of men and women in which no birth, death or marriage has occurred for almost a year!

Imagine that some community so steeped in religious fervor that the Sabbath worship takes on incantation aspects.

Conceive, if possible, a race of sturdy Scotchmen so bereft of courage that they settle their rows by shouting hostile words across a mountain side, and then work off their physical anger by cruelty to their own sheep dogs.

Such conditions exist on the island of St. Kilda, 40 miles off North West, in the Hebrides.

The Scotch inhabitants of the island are slowly degenerating under intermarriage. Minus tradition, history and any sense of purpose, the 72 inhabitants worry out a miserable existence on the bare mountains of their island.

St. Kilda consists of just under two square miles of jutting crags, of which but 40 acres is arable. A considerable portion of the remainder is pasture.

Refuse to Leave.

Attempts have been made to entice St. Kildians from their forbidding home. The elders of the community are content to let the younger men be content to take out life with the aid of charity from nearby islands.

Communism is said to exist in the shape of any other form of community or local control. The community speaks Gaelic. A few English words are used and written in English is uncommon. Since 1844 very few men, women and child have been seen from the mainland.

About 2000 sheep and 40 cattle graze the lifting slopes of the hills. In all sides, except for a tiny stretch of the coast, great black cliffs rear their 1000 feet above the sea. Neighbors are often accused of stampeding the mothers flock over these banks of death.

At intervals of about nine months ship with charity gifts, mail and supplies visits the islands.

Dr. Alexander, bearer of the Edinburgh board of health, was a passenger on the last ship to land there, making his annual visit of inspection to the island every island and not a single adult admitted to good health, intermarriage for generations, an unhealthy climate and absolutely uncleaned dirt account for his general sickness.

During some years the proportion of illegitimate births has been as high as 62.5.

Remarkable Feuds.

A feud can be got under way instantly. St. Kildian feuds are picturesque. They have the advantage of being bloodless. Feuds are the principal diversions on days other than Sundays.

The principals of a feud gather their supporters together. The opposing groups meet on a hillside and shout at each other. The side which drowns the vituperations of the other is the honored winner. Exhaustion or a superior supply of Gaelic invectives usually turn the tide.

Destructive tempers and families have robbed St. Kildians of hope in the future. Inbreeding has shown them of moral courage, ambition and stamina. Their miserable homes are worm-eaten fortresses, built to exclude element of terror rather than any human menace. St. Kildian house walls are as thick as they are high—and the average height is five feet.

Earthen roofs are weighted with sods as large as the primitive methods of the islanders allow them to hoist.

Even with this protection, fear-some winds scalp these dreary homes. From the North Pole and the north-eastern extremity of Canada sweep furies. Swoosh—the wind engulfs St. Kilda on its thousand feet of jutting stone—the houses are without tops.

OFFICER ATTACKS REPORTER; RELEASED

CHICAGO.—M. J. Mays, a patrolman, was under suspension pending an investigation by the police board into charges that he severely beat several local newspaper reporters, including two women writers, when they attempted to attend the examination by police of Mrs. Richard C. Tesmer, in connection with the slaying of her husband.

Besides beating them with his club, the two women told Chief of Police William Mays, that their dresses "were off" when they asked to go inside the Tesmer residence and then attacked several male reporters and photographers who went to their aid.

Mays said he was doing his duty by keeping press representatives away.

When we see "Dimpsey-Gibbons" we think it is a wedding. It is a different kind of a fight.

EAST MAY YET MEET WEST IN THE MATTER OF CLOTHES

The ORIENTAL WOMAN KEEPS HER HEAD VEILED IN PUBLIC.

THE OCCIDENTAL WOMAN FLAUNTS HER LOVELINESS

FLAUNTS HER LOVELINESS

NEW YORK, June 14.—Did you ever wonder why women of the east and west never have got together on the matter of clothes? Why Paris, the supposed center of the world's fashion, has never been able to spread its influence to the orient?

Well, it's something over which women have no control, if you'd take the word of Ahmed Abdullah, son of the Near East, novelist and short-story writer.

Women, he says, never can settle their differences in clothes until the men of the east and the west settle their own differences in ideas. For—and here's the only similarity the world over—women after all dress for the men.

But, explains Abdullah—

"Women of the orient and the west dress for different types of men.

Ahmed Abdullah.

The Islamic woman shrouds herself in veils to please her type, while the American and Parisian flappers expose their shoulder blades and knee caps to please theirs.

All for Man.

"The oriental woman keeps her beauty veiled in public so she may never be conspicuous—that would displease the men of her family. The more high class she is the more she veils.

"The occidental woman flaunts her loveliness so it may arouse admiration from many men, knowing this will enhance her value in the eyes of the man she loves.

"The statements of pretty girls in various states of negligee, displaying hosiery, corsets and the intimate details of a woman's dress, would shock the oriental and ruin his illusions. The occidental man apparently is unmoved by them.

Thoughts Differ.

"The oriental woman's veil is symbolic of her life and is an evidence of her understanding of men. It has nothing to do with her femininity or her lack of it."

"These differences in dress merely reflect the differences you find in the mental attitude of the easterner and the westerner, the author thinks.

Here's Way They Agreed To Race in Good Old Days

MARLIN, June 14.—A relic of bygone days when real horse racing, the sport of kings, was the principal diversion of Marlin people, and when the contests were staged on a straightaway, has been brought to light from the vaults of the First National bank of Marlin, where it has long lain among papers of ancient vintage.

It was discovered by President J. J. Luthien of the bank and was contained in an envelope addressed in the hand of the late B. C. Clark. It was in form of a contract drawn up for a race between one bay horse and one sorrel mare, the horse being owned by Jim Moore, and the mare by J. Matt Walker. The distance was designated as a quarter of a mile and the stakes were stipulated as $100 in cash and $100 in horseflesh.

The agreement set out that one-half the money was to be paid as forfeit, and if either of the horses failed to run, the stakes would go to the owner of the other.

The contract stipulated that the race was to start on "18 feet," at "ask and answer," the custom in those days being for the owner of one horse to shout: "Are you ready?" to which the owner of the other replied: "Go," from behind the poles with no start judges. "The first nose out" was to declare the winner. The decision of two judges, J. D. Faircloth and W. A. J. Nicholson, at the "outer course," the finish line, was to be final. The contract stipulated that the race be run "in the neighborhood of Marlin," Aug. 21, 1880, and that the "horses turn from day to day until the race was run." This latter expression arose from the fact that the horses were turned in the direction opposite that which they were to run, and at the agreed signal, were to wheel and go. "The quaint verbiage is traditional in local phraseology, and means that the race must be run, 3:30 to 1885.

Details Lacking

Details of the race are lacking, but a memorandum in the envelope shows that it was run, according to contract, and that the sorrel mare, known as "Myrtle mare of Brennon" and entered by Matt Walker, won and took down the money.

Bills of sale also filed in the envelope show that Walker and Moore each transferred a horse to the other, the presumption being that this was done in adjustment of that part of the stakes to be paid in horseflesh.

T. K. "Doc" Barton recalls that the race was run east of Marlin, and other incidents connected with it doubtless will be revived by several long-time residents of the city, who witnessed it and, mayhap, took a share. It was being done in the best of families in those days.

Californian Beheaded By Train in Nebraska

FREMONT, Neb.—F. S. Kendall, of Los Angeles, Cal., is dead here, decapitated by a Northwestern train one mile west of this city. The engineer said he saw the man with his neck across the track, but was unable to stop the locomotive in time.

UNEMPLOYMENT LOWEST IN YEAR

Condition Normal in Texas, Says U. S. Survey

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The whole country is at work with unemployment at its lowest point for 12 months, the United States labor department reported today in its monthly survey of labor conditions.

Analysis of the survey given out by the department shows that the farm labor shortage is increasing, having become acute in some sections; that industrial labor is generally working full time and in some cases overtime; and that unskilled labor has been very largely absorbed by road building and similar activities.

Sectional Analysis

Following is a sectional analysis of employment conditions:

Middle Atlantic states, including Pennsylvania: Basic industries operating at a high level, limited somewhat by lack of labor and material, accumulated orders in the iron and steel, automobile, machinery, railway equipment and building trade materials have stimulated demand for workers. Agriculture severely hampered by shortage of help. Practically all common labor available has been absorbed in state highway construction and repairs. A serious shortage in building workers is imminent in several cities, due to activity in this line.

East north central district: Volume of employment swinging up, with wage increases general. Record car loadings in the district indicate extent of industrial activity. Acute shortage of farm labor noted in Michigan and some skilled trades in Ohio.

Farm Help Shortage.

West north central district, including Missouri, Kansas, North and Nebraska: Great demand for farm help, on account of immensity of wheat harvest in Kansas and general shortage of agricultural labor throughout district. Road construction has stimulated demand for workers.

South Atlantic district, including West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida: Improved industrial activity noted throughout. Conditions in some sections brightest in years. Car shortage for coal somewhat interfering in West Virginia, though it is being relieved.

East south central district, including Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas: Except for surplus in Oklahoma oil district, employment conditions are normal.

Mountain district, including New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, Wyoming, Idaho, Montana, Nevada and Colorado: Farm labor shortage, skilled labor supply in Montana inadequate; upward trend all through district.

Pacific district, including Washington, Oregon, California: Employment for all, with strong demand in lumber and shortage in agriculture.

Invites His Pals to Hear Testimony at Divorce Hearing

BERLIN.—The German press and public usually show little interest in divorce trials, and a Berlin judge therefore was rather surprised to find his courtroom packed with visitors.

Counsel for the defendant wife requested exclusion of the spectators, whereupon it was revealed that the spouse, the plaintiff, had issued 100 formal invitations printed on gold bordered cards and sent to his neighbors and friends. The cards read:

"I have the honor to invite you to attend my divorce before the civil court and to listen in on the failings of my wife."

Immediately the judge cleared the courtroom and five minutes later sent the marital litigants on their respective ways, divorced.

COURT GASPS AS WOMEN TANGLE

Nose Pulling Match Upsets Magistrate

CHICAGO.—Judge Hebel had just opened his court when Mrs. Veronica Hodgowski walked over to the table where sat Mrs. Francis Budinski and her son, Edward, sitting Mrs. Budinski's nose firmly between thumb and finger, Mrs. Hodgowski gave it a lusty tweak. The victim squealed, the court gasped and arose, and spectators and attorneys began clambering on their chairs.

Shifting gears, Mrs. Hodgowski tweaked her victim's nose in another direction until it began to look like a water-soaked frankfurter sausage. Mrs. Budinski squealed still louder and two bailiffs fell upon her tormentor.

Prohibition may not be a long thing, but it is doubtful if it ever will reach the venerable age attained by bootlegging. Doctor Flinders Petrie, of the University of Pennsylvania, recently unearthed near Cairo a model of an Egyptian brewery 2700 years old. The model, which is thought to have been made about 1800 B. C., shows a dozen workers making beer from barley. It will be placed on exhibition in the university's museum.

MOUSE ENDS DANCE OF COLLEGE CO-EDS

BREAU, Wis.—A well cultured college mouse, his academic whiskers wagging to the cadence of an esthetic dance symphony, almost broke up the first annual dance interlude held on the Beloit campus here.

Scarcely did co-eds were doing incooperative dances before a big audience in front of the chapel when the mouse appeared on one of the Indian mounds in the midst of the female section of the audience.

The audience did a few interpretative dances on its own hook before a professional paw ended the temperamental mouse's career.

'Alcoholic Hog' Is Problem to Kansans

MANHATTAN, Kan.—The "alcoholic hog, with a taste for hawthorn" and its digestion ruined by even liquor mash, has presented a problem that is perplexing experts from the Kansas state agricultural college here, who are touring the wheat belt of Kansas on a special demonstration train.

Dr. C. W. McCampbell, one of the animal husbandry experts of the college, said Thursday the institution has no experimental data indicating a practical method of getting a hog over the effects of modern "hooch."

The question was asked by a woman in southwestern Kansas, who explained to the demonstration experts that she recently had purchased such a hog from a man who ran a still.

Before and After

Before the Palio, a picturesque horse race held each summer in Siena, Italy, each jockey takes his horse to a church and horse and rider receive a blessing. In America we do it differently. We usually "bless" race horses after the race.

BRIDE APPOINTED TO GUARD FAST GROOM

ITING BEACH.—B. B. Rhoades was placed on probation for a month in the custody of his bride after he had pleaded guilty in police court to violating the speed law.

"I was on my honeymoon," Rhoades told Police Judge Hawkins, "and I was going faster than I thought."

The court addressed the bride, who had corroborated her husband's testimony.

"I am going to make you an officer of this court for the next 30 days," said the court. "You will act as probation officer for your husband, and you will report to the court immediately, if, in that period, he even attempts to drive an automobile."

Forfeit Paid

"I am going to make you an officer of this court for the next 30 days," said the court. "You will act as probation officer for your husband, and you will report to the court immediately, if, in that period, he even attempts to drive an automobile."

MARKETS

NEW YORK, June 14.—No session since the stock market fell into its present state of depression. Nothing like the New York Central dividend increase of the previous day's market happened to relieve the monotony of the trading and speculative interest off to a ebullient with a corresponding shrinkage in the volume of the trading.

Oil believed under the depressing influence of rapidly expanding production and further losses were sustained by reports of stocks of this class. Standard Oil of New Jersey, Sinclair, and Sino Petroleum broke to new lows for the year, while Texas and Pacific Coal & Oil dropped to the lowest level the stock has ever seen.

But persistent attempts all day on the part of bearish sentiment to extend the selling to other parts of the list proved fruitless.

The market closed lower.

Closing prices:

U. S. Steel 34, off 1.

 Sino Petroleum 51, off 1.
 Oil stocks were under pressure in the early dealings in the stock market today, reflecting another increase in crude production which gained 33,000 barrels in the week ending June 9, as compared with the previous week. Stocks of oil companies were under the influence of further selling of steel common which declined half a cent.

Bulls made no response to the car loadings figures for the week ending June 2, which showed that the daily average loadings were held up to the unexpected levels of the season.

New York Central lost a half point in the initial trading and other active rails were off fractionally.

Closing prices:

New York Central was down 1 at 104; other prices:

War Babies Mentally Inferior, Says Matron

LONDON, June 14.—Children born during the war years are mentally inferior to others, according to the headmistress of a large London school.

School age is just arriving for the babies who entered the world when it was in flames. These youngsters were deprived of nourishing food. Their mothers had been denied proper parental sustenance, according to members of a teachers' conference which recently considered the problem.

Especially in the areas subject to German air raids the neurotic condition of the latter days of the war Londoners were robbed of many hours of sleep by nocturnal visits of German bombers. Adults have recuperated from their temporary abstinence from rest. For the babies, the job has been too much.

Special methods are to be employed to prevent any permanent crippling of the children's brains.

Leaders Consider Cuts on Agricultural Products

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Voluntary reduction of rates, particularly on agricultural products is being seriously considered by some of the country's leading railroad executives as a partial answer to the great clamor about the railroad problem.

The railroads will have their own answer to this whole problem including the administration's consolidation plan, the progressives' demand for government ownership or more drastic government control, and the general appeal for rate reductions.

Increased Efficiency

One phase of this answer will be a claim of increased efficiency in management and operation, better service and more extensive coping with transportation than the country has seen in years.

The railroads are spending millions on new equipment. They have asked the interstate commerce commission to authorize to spend more than $1,500,000,000 on cars and locomotives. In many sections, they are building new extensions. They are reducing the number of bad or for-come-and-locomotives by hundreds.

This constitutes more than ordinary business procedure. It is the railroads' answer to the question of their ability to reconstruct and rehabilitate their business by themselves.

Extensive Increase

At the same time, the railroads have been increasing their earnings, so that generally speaking they are making a return of from 6 to 6 1/2 per cent. That figure must be used broadly, and not an applying to a year or any other lengthy period, nor to individual roads.

It is accepted for the time being, simply as an indication of the competition of transportation business. But is a strong enough indication to the most practical and far seeing of the railroad executives to lead them to consider an offer to reduce rates to the farmers even below "a fair return" standard.
